[1] POP and IMAP are processes used to download e-mails to your computer. POP removes the e-mails from the server after they are downloaded; IMAP leaves the downloaded e-mails on the server.
[2] The MAPI protocol compares the e-mails, calendar, contacts and notes in your e-mail program with those on the server. In the office, at home or on the road – your data is always available.
[3] The MAPI protocol compares the e-mails, calendar, contacts and notes in your e-mail program with those on the server. In the office, at home or on the road – your data is always available.
Order the "Without Outlook License" version if you already have an e-mail program (e.g., Outlook) that you want to continue using. You will then use your existing Outlook program at home or in the office.
Please note that the license we offer is not compatible with the Microsoft Office "click-to-run" version.
